Question 75:

Who founded the 'Khalsa Panth' in Rajasthan, a sect among the Meghwals?

- a) Ramdevji
- b) Jambhoji
- c) Laldasji
- d) Haridasji

Result/Answer: c) Laldasji (Laldasi Panth) - Correction: The question might be referring to the Laldasi Panth, which is associated with Mewat region. If it implies a specific "Khalsa Panth" in Rajasthan other than the Sikh Khalsa, then Laldasji is the most likely context given local sects. However, for a general Khalsa, it would be Guru Gobind Singh. Let's assume it refers to a local sect. If the question implies the Sikh Khalsa, the answer would be Guru Gobind Singh, but in the context of Rajasthan's local saints/sects, Laldasji founded a panth. Let me re-evaluate based on common PYQ patterns. The term "Khalsa Panth" is almost exclusively associated with Sikhism. If the question intends a local Rajputana sect, it's poorly phrased. Let's assume the question intends to ask about a local saint's sect. For example, the Jasnathi Panth (Jasnathji), Vishnoi Panth (Jambhoji), Ram Snehi Panth (Ram Charanji, Dariyaoji), Laldasi Panth (Laldasji). None of these are explicitly called "Khalsa Panth".

Given the potential ambiguity, and knowing that sometimes questions can be slightly imprecise, if it's looking for a leader of a significant local panth, Laldasji is a possibility for the Mewat region. However, a "Khalsa Panth" in the direct sense is Guru Gobind Singh.

Let me adjust this specific question to avoid ambiguity or correct it if it's a known PYQ with a specific intent.

*Self-correction: "Khalsa Panth" is very specifically Sikh. There isn't a widely recognized local "Khalsa Panth" founded by a Rajasthani saint. This question might be flawed or out of context. I will replace it with a more standard Rajasthan GK question to maintain accuracy.*
